

Diana Gordon, MAT, MPH, is the Education & Outreach Coordinator at the Oregon National Primate Research Center (ONPRC). She received her Masters in the Art of Teaching from Lewis & Clark College, and a Masters in Public Health from Portland State University. From 1993-2000 she taught biology at St. Mary's Academy High School in Portland, Oregon, and received the National Association of Biology Teacher's "Outstanding Biology Teacher of the Year Award" for the State of Oregon in 1998. Prior to her employment at the ONPRC, Diana worked for Vernier Software and Technology, a company that develops probeware and software for use in science education. While at Vernier, Diana led teacher training workshops throughout the country. At the Primate Center she has primary responsibility and oversight of the many programs that provide opportunities for Center personnel to interact with the public.
